

Y. M. C. A. WORKERS

ENTHUSIASM PREVAILS AT THE MEETING HELD TO PLAN CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS

Glendale is thoroughly alive with earnest workers for the Y. M. C. A. this week. A luncheon was held in the social rooms of the Methodist church Monday evening at which time plans were formulated for the pledging of $5000 or more on the part of the people of this community. Rev. T. F. McCrea called the meeting to order and named J. H. Braly as chairman of the evening. Mr. Braly in his preliminary remarks stated that the Red Cross drive had been a great success, that more than $6000 had been pledged and still there remains an opportunity for the Y. M. C. A. to secure an equal amount for their good cause. Of the $6000 pledged for the Red Cross one-half that amount was given by sixty-five individuals and the total number of people subscribing was 350, so it will be seen that in a city of 10,000 there is still opportunity to get new material to subscribe and it is very certain that those who have already given to the Red Cross will also contribute to the Y. M. C. A. War Work fund which is of so much importance.

At the close of the luncheon, Eska Wilson, who is the Y. M. C. A. secretary at Camp Kearney was introduced and gave an outline of the work that is being done by the Y. M. C. A. in the various cantonments in the United States. He said bookkeeping and mathematics are being taught at Camp Kearney and all foreign languages except German. Up to the present time no soldier has asked to be taught the German language. Mr. Wilson said the young men are encouraged to write home often for it has been found that so long as a young man has his mind on his folks at home he is sure to have good habits and seek good company. Mr. Wilson said the great trouble at present is the Y. M. C. A. buildings will not accommodate all of the soldiers who wish to be entertained. These buildings can only be erected and maintained by the money that is paid in by the people of Glendale and other cities in the United States so it is important that the contributions be many and as large as possible.

Sergt. Martin Sadler of Camp Kearney, gave the main address of the evening. He has recently crossed the ocean in the service of the government four times and while in France experienced many hardships and learned of the intense suffering the war is causing the people in the war zone. From Mr. Sadler's address and from a personal interview we glean the following interesting facts:

A few months ago Mr. Sadler went to France as foreman on a horse transport. A submarine attacked the

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Mrs. George H. Robinson, of 315 Geneva, entertained with a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mrs. George Monberg, formerly Miss Virginia McMaster of 108 So. Jackson, Saturday afternoon. The afternoon was spent with games and music. Mrs. McMaster won the prize, Miss Irene McLaren at the piano and Miss Frances Peckham with the violin gave several selections. Miss Frae Morse also gave several selections. Miss Merva Scott favored us with a vocal solo. The bride was presented with beautiful gifts. After refreshments were served the guests departed wishing the bride all the happiness in the world. The invited guests were: Merna Scott, Gladys Mason, Ruth Wilson, Mabel Echols, Frae Morse, Francis Peckham, Dorothy Hunt, Mrs. George Monberg, Irene McLaren, Mrs. McMaster, Irene McMaster, Mrs. Thomas Furst, Mrs. Thelma Wilcox, Olive Wright, Mrs. Rachel LaRock.

MR. DARNLEY SURPRISED

Mrs. Harden Darnley entertained most charmingly on Saturday evening with a surprise birthday party for Mr. Darnley. The house was a bower of greenery, with ferns and smilax beautifully arranged and brightened by a profusion of rose carnations. A "Dutch lunch" was served of "wienies" with hot rolls and coffee and other appropriate good things. The evening was spent in music and dancing. Among the especially entertaining numbers were solos by Mr. Jackson, Mrs. Walker and Mr. Darnley. The guests were all from Glendale with the exception of Mrs. Dowd, of Riverside, who is the house guest of her sister, Mrs. Middleton. Those present, besides the host and hostess, were: Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Middleton and Mrs. Dowd, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Groton, Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Walker, and Mr. and Mrs. Lister Silva.

ALL ARE "OUR BOYS"

WE WILL NOT SLIGHT ONE WHO HAS GIVEN HIMSELF TO COUNTRY

The News is always glad to correct errors and certainly would be more than glad to right any oversight to any one of our boys who have given themselves to their country. However, it seems only fair in reply to such letters as the one printed below to cite the facts as they are. There seems to have been some misapprehension concerning some of the lists of names recently printed. Particularly has the one appearing under the heading "Service Flags," on November 6th seemingly caused considerable misunderstanding. As stated in that article, "Boys, so far as known, who have stars displayed for them on service flags in their homes," were the ones then mentioned. Efforts were made to get in touch with all who at that time had displayed service flags for their boys. Certainly no intentional slights were intended if some were inadvertently overlooked. We want to make a complete list of all the service flags in town and will gladly add names to the lists which we hope to publish from time to time. But there has been no attempt made so far to print any complete lists of boys who have gone for service. The six names published on the above date, and included in the "Service Flag" article which mentioned boys who had left for France, was identical in intent with the remainder of the list in giving only those who, as far as known, already were honored in their homes with service flags. The day following, November 7th, it was possible to print a complete list of the ten boys who had left for France with the good news of their arrival there. Among the four names not included the day before because, to the best of our knowledge, there had at that time been no service flag displayed for them, was that of Frank Littell, who was, as we stated with great pleasure, one of the ten to arrive safely at their destination on the other side. If at any time we do leave your boys out of a list in which they properly belong we will gladly correct the error, for there isn't a boy who has gone from Glendale who isn't "our" boy, and we wouldn't slight any one of them for the world. But, so far as we can discover, it hasn't happened yet.

Frank Littell in France

November 12, 1917.

Editor Glendale News, Glendale, Cal.

Dear Sir:—There has been a good deal of publicity recently about the Glendale boys who have answered the colors, and particularly about the little group of young fellows who have already gone forward to France as part of Company F, Engineer Corps, "Rainbow Division."

In much of this publicity, I note that the name of my brother, Frank Littell, of 1100 N. Dryden street, Glendale, does not appear. I do not think the oversight has been intentional. It may have occurred because of the fact that for six months prior to his enlistment, he was working in Lompoc. But that doesn't make him a whit less "a Glendale boy," as he lived there for thirteen years, graduating from its grammar and high schools, taking part in its tennis and athletic events, entertainments and plays, and in general being one of the best known young men in that community.

I do not know that his name has been overlooked by your publication in any way. But quite recently one of your contemporaries printed a long article paying individual and particular tribute to every one of "the engineer boys" but Frank. As a matter of fact, Frank was one of the very first to join this company and was instrumental in persuading several of the other boys out there to join.

Of course, Frank or none of the other boys joined with the idea of being glorified or eulogized, but I am sure it would be a keen disappointment for him to receive a copy of a home paper "over there," 7000 miles away, and find his only missing name on the "Honor Roll."

That is why I am taking this little precaution in the hope that it won't occur again, as there will be more or less news right along and about these particular boys who have had the honor to go first. This is one of the pitifully few little things I can do as one of the "left behind" women who must watch and wait.

Thanking you for any kindnesses in this matter, I am,

Yours very truly,

CLARA V. EASTMAN.

LIFE AT CAMP LOGAN

L. KENT WELLINGTON WRITES INTERESTING LETTER TO COUSIN HERE

Miss Marion Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Richardson, 611 West Broadway, is in receipt of an interesting letter from her cousin, Corporal L. Kent Wellington, giving a picture of camp life as it is lived in company K, 131st U. S. Infantry, Camp Logan, Houston, Texas. Corporal Wellington says:

"We are going through a course of training that surely is keeping me on the go as far as study is concerned. The non-coms. (or corporals and sergeants) have to go to school Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday nights to prepare the lesson for the next day. Wednesday is devoted to a review of Monday and Tuesday, and Saturday is devoted to weekly inspection of equipment and a general check-up of ordinance and supplies. This is over about noon and the men are allowed to go out of camp, down town or anywhere else they want to, if they are back by 1 o'clock at night. Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, they have a personal inspection including condition of clothing, shoes and the rifle and bayonet. As soon as that is over, they are off again until 12 o'clock at night to go and do as you see fit.

"Our course of study includes the new form of bayonet exercises, trench warfare, wire entanglements, grenade and bomb throwing, etc., as it is done now by the French and English on the Western front.

"Maj. Gen. Bell who is in command of the division that we are in now (which is the Southern Division) has just returned from France with all the latest dope on these things together with three or four competent officers to give us instructions.

Today I am having things pretty easy as yesterday I was put in charge of quarters while the rest of the company went out to the rifle range, leaving me behind with three sick men and I shall stay here until one of the sergeants complete their course, then he will come in and relieve me so that I can go out and do my shooting to see if I can qualify.

"From what I hear now, the possibilities are pretty good for us to eat Christmas dinner on the other side. Will have to close now in order to report my sick men to the hospital and get ready to eat dinner."

PATRIOTIC POEMS PUBLISHED BY GLENDALE WOMAN

Mrs. Nanno Woods has just had published by the Glendale Evening News printing office a set of Six Patriotic Poems. The titles of the poems are as follows: "A Call from Camp," "We Are Coming," "Dear Soldier Boy," "Today Not Tomorrow," "Mothers of Men," and "Soldiers Clad in Khaki." The poems are tastefully arranged, each one on a separate page; and the booklet would make an ideal Christmas gift. Mrs. Woods offers to place the booklets with any organization desiring to sell them for the Red Cross benefit or for other approved patriotic purposes. They sell for 15 cents each; and the entire profits may be handled by the organization selling the booklets. Mrs. Woods further offers to read these poems at any meeting, concert or entertainment gotten up for Red Cross or other patriotic purposes, the entertainment committee to receive all profits resulting from sale of booklets amongst the audience. Mrs. Woods hopes in this way to augment her little bit for the Red Cross and kindred causes. Today she gives her first reading of these patriotic poems at the Tuesday Afternoon Club of Glendale; later at the Burbank Woman's Club, and also at Blanchard Hall some Sunday morning at the Church of the People, under Mr. Reynold Blight's auspices.

BATTERY A MOVES

SIX GLENDALE BOYS IN FIELD ARTILLERY AT CAMP KEARNEY

Six Glendale boys, so far as known, are among those of Battery A, 143d Field Artillery, who left the Presidio at San Francisco last Saturday and arrived with great pomp and ceremony at Linda Vista on Monday morning. This move will be joyously received by the Glendale friends and relatives of these boys who left home on July 5th, as they will doubtless be enabled to get leave which will bring them home on a visit now and then, from their new location. Battery A travelled with horses and full equipment amounting to something like three trainloads, and were met at Camp Kearney with brass bands and cheering soldiers lined up to give them welcome. The Glendale boys, so far as reported, are: William G. Fode, Merle J. Eckels, Gray Hitchcock, Herbert Henning, Earle P. Merritt and Harry E. Spink.

LADIES MAKE GOOD AS COOKED FOOD VENDERS

Saturday's Red Cross cooked food and light lunch sale at the headquarters next door to the post office netted the local chapter $25.00—pretty good returns considering that but little publicity was given the event. Great resourcefulness was displayed by those in charge in handling the numbers who patronized the lunch table. Two small electric percolators supplied steaming hot coffee of delectable blend. This was served with real cream for five cents the cup. By next Saturday a gas plate will be installed, for which credit is due Mr. Ezra Parker. Larger numbers can then be handled with facility. Mrs. Yorba Sowl of the Casa Verdugo Spanish restaurant, has also promised three dozen Spanish tamales and a large number of pumpkin pies are in prospect. The room was kept open until six-thirty and offered a pleasant meeting place for friends. Customers came and went all day. A pie and a loaf of nut bread was purchased by someone who promised to call for them later. These were unclaimed at closing time and were resold. The original purchasers can have their money back by applying to Mrs. Boettner next Saturday.

FAREWELL TO SIGNAL CORPS

On Monday evening, at the Temperance Temple in Los Angeles, the W. C. T. U. gave a reception to the 250 boys of the Signal Corps and their commander, Ray L. Allen, Master Signal Electrician, who are to leave Wednesday morning at 9:30 for Camp Lewis. The program was composed largely of numbers by Glendale Union High School girls, and the Glendale W. C. T. U. had an active part in the affair from first to last, furnishing more than their share in the making, giving and filling of the comfort bags with which each of the men was presented during the evening. Included in the very interesting program were: a piano duet by the Misses Esterly, a violin trio by Misses Faith Tarling, Ruth Palmer and Evangeline Quackenbush, and a solo by Miss Elizabeth Mottern. Miss Nellie Rowe gave a comic reading which was joyously received by the soldier boys, and Miss Frances Gauntlet sang the Japanese national anthem in Japanese language. Miss Esterly presented the boys with a mascot which was a small white kid jocularly referred to as "Kaiser Bill," reading an original comic poem of presentation which met with keen appreciation. Mrs. Kara Smart Root, wife of Prof. Root of the G. U. H. S., had charge of the program and also has managed the comfort bag shop which has done such efficient work. Excellent refreshments were served of home made cake and ice cream, and each boy was given a red carnation and a bow of white ribbon. Miss Gauntlet presented the commander with a beautiful pen and ink copy of a famous painting, to be used at the new headquarters. The hall was beautifully decorated in flowers and flags, and the evening was enjoyed by all. After patriotic songs and the salute to the flag, "God be With You till We Meet Again," was sung and the bugler of the company sounded "Taps," as Goodnight and farewell.

ACCEPTANCE NOTICES

Judging from the way that the acceptance cards are coming in from business and professional men who will be at the Thursday noon luncheon at the Masonic Temple, these gentlemen realize the ladies preparing the lunch must have a reasonable time in which to make arrangements to serve from 125 to 150 people in as substantial a manner as they were served at the first luncheon.

WHY WE ARE AT WAR

The following quotation is from "Operations on the Sea," by Freiherr von Edelsheim, who was in the service of the German general staff in 1901. A translation of "Operations on the Sea" appeared in 1914. The excerpt from this translation, here given, is proof conclusive that war against the United States and conquest of the United States was part of the German plan for world domination before the outbreak of the present war in Europe:

"It is questionable whether there is anything to be gained in occupying for any length of time so large a territory as the United States. The fact that one or two of her provinces were occupied by invaders would not alone move the Americans to sue for peace. To accomplish this end the invaders would have to inflict real material damage by injuring the whole country through the successful seizure of many of the Atlantic seaports in which the threads of the entire wealth of the nation meet.

"It should be so managed that a line of land operations would be in close juncture with the fleet, through which we would be in a position to seize within a short time many of these important and rich cities, to interrupt their means of supply, disorganize all governmental affairs, assume control of all useful buildings, confiscate all war and transport supplies, and, lastly, to impose heavy indemnities. For enterprises of this sort small land forces would answer our purpose, for it would be unwise for the American garrison to attempt an attack.

"Their excellently developed railways will enable them to concentrate their troops in a relatively short time at the various recognized landing places on the coast. But there are many other splendid landings, and it appears feasible for the invading corps to conduct its operations on these points with the co-operation of the fleet. The land corps can either advance aggressively against the concentrated opposing forces or through embarking evade an attack and land at a new place.

"As a matter of fact, Germany is the only great power which is in a position to conquer the United States."

"And this from an article by Major General von Disfurther, retired, published in the Hamburger Nachrichten, as indicating the gentle methods of conquest approved by militant Germany:

"No object whatever can be served by taking any notice of the accusations of barbarity leveled against Germany by her foreign critics. We owe no explanation to any one. Whatever act is committed by our troops for the purpose of discouraging, defeating and destroying the enemy is a brave act and fully justified. Germany stands the supreme arbiter of her own methods. War is war.

"They call us barbarians. What of it? We scorn them and their abuse. For my part, I hope in this war we have merited the title 'barbarians.' Let neutral people and our enemies cease their empty chatter which may well be compared to the twitter of birds. Our troops must achieve victory. What else matters?"

There is the answer to "Why We Are at War." We have been marked for conquest by Germany. We are a prospective part—and a wonderful rich part—of Germany's spoils of war.

We are actually defending our shores against invasion. If we choose to place our first line of defense on the east side rather than on the west side of the Atlantic, we simply follow the most approved military tactics (tactics so successfully employed by Germany) in striking our first defense (or offensive) blow as far from our own territory as we can.

American soldiers in the trenches of France, Flanders or Belgium are fighting to keep a powerful enemy from getting closer to the United States. They are fighting for the United States; not for France or Belgium or England or Russia. They are fighting for us, for our country, for our homes.

And any one in the United States who by word, sign or act, for any reason or any purpose, seeks to lessen the full effectiveness of our soldiers now close to the battle front, or to prevent the government of the United States and the people of the United States from giving our soldiers the fullest possible support and comfort and encouragement in every way, is a traitor to the United States, an enemy of the people, and should be treated as an enemy and a traitor promptly and effectively, no matter what the position, social, political or official, of the traitor.

We are at war because we refuse to become serfs of the Prussian war lords.

We are at war because we are not cowards.

We are at war because we are a nation of self-governing free-men and intend to remain so.

We are at war because we are men, not poltroons.

We are at war because we are right.

We are at war because there is still backbone enough in the United States, thank God, to enable us to stand on our feet and fight, when fighting is the only thing to do.

And we'll be at war, we'll keep on fighting, till we win.

That's American. That's final.—The Valve World.

NEW WORK IN CITIES

While the United States Department of Agriculture has for a long time been conducting work of benefit to city folks, it is now undertaking, directly and for the first time, to help the city woman in the work of promoting food production, food conservation, and household thrift. To carry on this work through demonstrations and through other educational methods, Congress made appropriations for women city agents of the department. The cities through their various organizations help to support the movement, which is carried on by the department in cooperation with the State colleges of agriculture.

The work of the bureau of Chemistry and of the Office of Home Economics has been of benefit, in respect to foods, to city women, though no more so than to country women. The Bureau of Markets, through its city market work, affects both the country producer and the city consumer.

Those in charge of the home demonstration work in the various states welcome the authority and the opportunity to work directly ship. Confusion reigned on deck. Sadler, with his men, was stationed beneath decks at the time of the alarm. With a rush the men sprang up the narrow companionway, only to be met at the top by an officer of the ship who ordered them below. Together with the officer, Sadler commanded and begged his men to keep under cover. But to no avail. With the bursting on board of the first German shell, an excited rush turned into a panic. Back and forth ran the terrified horse tenders. At last, in a compact group they huddled together at the back of the captain's cabin. Sadler and a cool-headed companion remained below, preferring to chance death by torpedo rather than by German shells.

Sadler says that he went on deck to find the captain and first officer lying beside the demolished steering gear of the vessel with great gaping shell holes through their bodies. Eight of Sadler's men lay on their faces, dead. The Kearny guardsman declares that at the evening funeral services, the son of the captain officiated and that when the bodies of the slaughtered men went over the vessel's side, they were wrapped in the flags of three different nations—French, English and American.

All told, Sadler made four trips to France and back. All were made after the outbreak of the war. The first trip was made on the Chipani, and with the exception of a bad storm, passed without mishap. The second has been described. On the third, Sadler and nine of his American and English friends were stranded in France for several months without money, without food, and worse than that, without a knowledge of the French language. The Kearny man declares that he never really knew what loneliness really was until he found himself among people who could neither speak nor understand the English language. He says that during his forced stay in France, he one day found himself in possession of a $5 bill. In vain he tried to get it changed. Finally he stepped up to a group of well-dressed French officers. "No good this money," he declared with the proper French gestures. "I want French."

"Say," drawled one of the officers, "can't you speak English?"

Sadler got back to the land of the Stars and Stripes on board of the Ardgowan as a stowaway. Through the kindness of the ship captain he was allowed to go ashore at New York without trouble. A little later he shipped on board the Anglo-Bolivian and made his fourth trip to France without mishap. His fifth trip he expects to make as a Sammy.

The luncheon was served by the ladies of the Methodist church, and was up to their usual high standard. The committee heads selected to conduct the campaign for funds in Glendale are enthusiastic. The names of the committees and the result of their efforts will be published in a few days.

A GREEN SWEATER

(Contributed)

There was a woman who knitted a green sweater. She was a well fed, well nourished looking woman, and she didn't particularly care for green, but she went into a small local shop where the proprietor, who was by no means wealthy, had more green yarn than any other kind, and if nobody bought the green yarn it wouldn't be sold, the woman argued. The woman who knitted wore her last year's suit, although she looked attractive because she believed in it, just as she did in cheerfulness. Her husband had only a shabby overcoat, but he did out-of-door work to support his family and his health wasn't of the best. The woman wanted to buy him a good looking sweater she had seen in one of the shops which sold for ten dollars, and she almost did. The sweaters were made to be sold to somebody and it never would have occurred to her or to anyone else that it was unpatriotic to buy one. But a bright idea struck her. She was a busy woman, but she had learned to knit so that she might help the Red Cross. Many and many an evening she had sat until late after the children were in bed, laboriously knitting with urban dwellers. In former years they have often held extension schools, meetings, and demonstrations in canning, preserving, cooking, and other lines of food conservation in towns and cities, for country women, on account of the convenience of holding them there, and the town and city women have incidentally derived much benefit from such meetings.

The plans for the city demonstration agents call for the employment of workers who will cooperate with and work through organizations already in existence or help to form new ones where none exist. They will assist the city women in their problems concerning food production, prevention of waste, and the conservation of food. The actual lines of work include home gardening, poultry raising, canning, drying, pickling, preserving, and brining of fruits and vegetables, proper methods of storage in the homes to prevent loss, utilization of leftovers, economic methods of buying, prevention of unnecessary waste in the consumption of food, introduction of new foods as partial substitutes for meat and wheat flour, proper diet, and other activities.

In general these city agents are organized as a part of the extension work for women in the state. In some states this work is made a special division, while in others it is a very intimate part of the regular home demonstration work. In some instances the city worker is appointed as an assistant to the regular county home demonstration agent who already has influence in the city. In other cases city agents are appointed independently. Where there is a strong farm organization or county farm bureau the agent may be officially associated with the work of that organization.

away at mufflers and dish cloths at first, which were simple and easy, and later had even made socks and helmets to send to other women's boys at the front, since her own had gone on over—and beyond, and she could no longer send him reminders of love and home. He had already given his country all he had, but she could still give more. But, to go back, this woman decided that she would add to her already busy hours a few more each day, and by so doing she could, instead of spending the money for an overcoat, or even a sweater, herself make a sweater, and thus give perhaps five dollars in cash to the Red Cross. She did it. And one day when she was taking the last tired stitches in the green sweater, a woman said to her, "Ah, knitting for the Kaiser, I see!" Well, perhaps even in war time it is as well to look on the other side, sometimes. It may be a hopelessly antiquated command that says, "Judge not that ye be not judged," but it is barely conceivable that even a pretty girl frivolously knitting something pink might have hidden in her heart motives that we know not of.

SOLDIER OR SLACKER

It isn't because he carries a gun
And sleeps in a tent when the day is done.

That a man is called a soldier;
Nor because he marches, with head held high

And a swift salute when the flag goes by,
For none of these make a soldier.

'Tis because he heeds when an order's heard,
Because he obeys it with never a word,

That a man is called a soldier;
Because his weapons are shining bright,

His courage steady from morn till night,—
For these are the signs of a soldier.

'Tis slackers who argue and fail to obey,
'Tis slackers who pout when they can't have their way,

They're not for the life of a soldier,
'Tis slackers who idle and won't do their bit,

They never could fight, for they haven't the grit,
Oh, valor it takes for a soldier!

At the Auto Show in Los Angeles this week, 47 passenger car dealers are showing 257 automobiles ranging from $600 to $6,000 in price and 22 truck dealers are showing a total of 47 commercial cars. There are 56 accessory exhibitors showing. The display will far exceed in beauty and elegance and area anything ever attempted in the past by the motor moguls of the southland. Exhibitors have racked their brains and searched the country over for new ideas and color schemes to attract the wary prospect. That they have succeeded in bringing out new and original designs is the opinion of a select few that have been given a peek at a number of the cars before they were sent to their respective locations in the patriotically and tastefully decorated show salon.

Miss Emily Squier, 538 N. Louise street, until recently club and society editor of the Los Angeles Times, has accepted a position on the editorial staff of the "California Life" with headquarters in the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena. The position offers free scope to Miss Squier's exceptional talents, as the publication is designed to reflect the artistic and social side of life in and about the many palatial hotels of the Southland.

Mr. and Mrs. John Marquardt have moved out from Los Angeles and will occupy the house at 207 North Kenwood street. Mr. and Mrs. Marquardt are both musicians of considerable distinction, having studied and travelled abroad for a number of years, as well as having been instructors in music in this country where they have been on concert tours for several years past. Mrs. Marquardt is a harpist and her husband a violinist.

A SAD BLACK CAT

A large, left-over black cat which somehow strayed out of its proper Halloween environments became lost last Friday, and now, on the Thirteenth is in dire need of succor for its lives. The cat is getting hungry. It is of an extremely shy and shrinking disposition according to its unwilling host, who has assiduously chased the retiring feline under a series of beds in a continuously baffled effort at a personally tendered peace pact. The cat evidently considers beds a stronghold during hostile negotiations, for when it is not beneath them in retreat it is taking a cat nap on top of its chosen vantage point. It is a wise cat in its way, for it has done what any cat with such firm convictions in the matter of beds should do, and has selected a furniture store for the scene of its seige against nefarious strangers. So far its tactics have proven effective against the most well intentioned and sleuth-like approach. The only real disadvantage about a furniture store in a case like that, is that it is short on rations. Even though Kitty may pussy foot out, being of a naturally roving disposition and a little restless, perhaps, because of nothing to eat since fateful Friday, and may steal ever so stealthily about when nobody is looking, the chances are poor for forage. Even the mice live across or down the street at the grocery stores. There really seems only one denouement for this cat tale unless his master's voice comes to the rescue. Without food the cat might die. All its waning lives might be lost at once. But that has long been held to be an impossibility. So we seem to have an impasse. Anyway, this isn't a fish story. Telephone Glendale 40 and see. And if your black cat is partly white and is lost—hurry.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

The friends and relatives of Mrs. Louis Richardson, 121 Belmont street, gave her a pleasant birthday surprise on Monday afternoon at her home. All met at the home of one of the neighbors and marched in a body to the Richardson home, bearing flowers and refreshments. The surprise was enjoyably effective and the merry guests crowded in upon the somewhat bewildered but very happy hostess and proceeded to arrange the flowers and set the table with a most appetizing and beautiful birthday cake in the center. Sandwiches, cocoa, and ice cream were served besides the delicious cake. The afternoon was spent in needlework. Those present, besides the hostess, were: Mrs. F. Jenkins, from Grass Valley, who is the mother of Mrs. Richardson and is spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. S. Richardson, mother of Mr. Louis Richardson, and his sister, Mrs. M. Miller and Mrs. J. J. Jenkins, and Mesdames D. Wilson, C. G. Tooker, Ed Lee, Mrs. P. Diedrich and M. Frei, and the Misses Anna Eifert, Ruth Richards, and Elsie Wilson.

NEW THOUGHT

"The scripture reading was taken from the third chapter of John in which is told that night interview between the teacher, Jesus and the Pharisee, Nicodemus.

"There were three sects in that time, the Pharisees, who were literal interpreters of the law, the Sadducees, who denied the resurrection, and the Essenes, who understood the spiritual or hidden meaning of the law. This sect is supposed by some to have been the por-genitors of the modern free masons, and Jesus is thought to have belonged to that inner circle.

"In the sixteenth verse of this chapter is given the greatest love story in all literature. There are many great love stories in the bible, Isaac's faithful devoted love to Abraham, the love of a son to the father; then the love of a father to a son as given in the case of David and Absalom. The love between man and woman where Jacob served his father-in-law fourteen years for Rachel, and in the beautiful story of Ruth and Naomi, is given a woman's love for woman. While the love of man for man is given in the story of David and Jonathan. Then there is the story of man's love for his mother, when Jesus in great physical agony, gives His mother into John's care.

"All these, and many others may be cited from the bible and from other literature, but the supreme love is that taught in this verse: "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

"I wish first, to explain the older interpretation, second, our newer interpretation, and third, give the practical lessons we gain therefrom.

"For the older interpretation, we have the utmost respect and reverence. We must differentiate a man's belief from his practise; his religion from his creed. The Oriental philosophy teaches that all religions lead to God. We may come by one road or another, providing we have the religious character, we reach the central goal or God.

"But the liberal thought to us is a quicker, saner means to an end, a shorter, easier road to God. We know God can be worshipped as well by the individual who is right at heart, in a Buddhist temple, in a New Thought hall, or a Methodist church. And we have a duty to ourselves to get the truer, spiritual interpretation.

"God in this love story is the author of this love; the object of his love is man; the extent of his love, that he gave the dearest thing that he had, his Son; the purpose, that no one might perish; the reward, the inheritance of eternal life.

"God is a Spirit, a Universal Consciousness of good, not a tyrant, a ruler, an anthropomorphic being, who whips people into line, producing fear and dread.

"Man is the expression of God. God would naturally love creatures of his own handiwork. As one sun is reflected in ocean, lake, rivulet and mill pond, so one Universal Consciousness, the God, is reflected in millions of human beings.

"God loved man. We may call a man a devil, but he is our brother, a potential God. There never comes a time when we have a right to look down on anyone.

"God so loved all humanity, that he gave his only begotten Son, which was that impersonal Truth (Christ), that was incarnated more in Jesus than in any other individual so far as we have record. This man of Galilee manifested the inner truth and life of God more than any other.

"The purpose, whosoever believes and receives the truth, shall receive the reward. For he who rejects truth is perishing, lacking, limiting. Ignorance does not excuse.

"The reward, everlasting life, but not in the sense of quantity of time, but of quality of character. So, instead of gaining a localized heaven, we have a life of activity, a life pure and holy, knowing no limitations, and complete in realization.

"We must love all humanity—the law doesn't require that we like everybody, that is impossible—we must lay down our self-will, our desire to have our own way day by day.

"The life of Jesus, the Christ, was one of unstinted self-sacrifice, of which the crucifixion was merely an incident, tremendously important and significant, but, for us, at least, of secondary consideration, compared to the daily laying down of his life in living acts of self-abnegation and devotion."

CONSERVATION CORNER

Two more suggestions have come in of helpful ideas for saving. Glendale ladies are invited to contribute freely in this good old-fashioned kind of practical conservation. Our correspondent says: "We find squash or pumpkin cheap and nourishing, and also very good when well seasoned. The water in which it is boiled can be boiled down and used for the baking of pumpkin or squash custard pies, largely taking the place of sugar, and making the pies rich with fewer eggs. It is very little extra work. Another way of saving, for those who are willing to spoil their hands (and I have a notion that our soldiers and nurses are spoiling theirs for us), is to use less soap—which requires oil in its manufacture—by the substitution of lye, which will do the work in the kitchen. Pour the lye, when first opened, into a mason jar. Keep sealed. Remove the wrapper from the can and paste on the jar. Don't trust your children with it."

BRETON SERGEANT FOOLED GERMAN FIRING SQUAD

PARIS, October 29 (By Mail).—The Breton peasant is noted for his hardiness, but even in the annals of that sturdy race the adventure of Edmond Augier, late sergeant in a Chasseur regiment, will rank among the most remarkable.

While reconnoitering with five comrades in a shell-ravaged wood, he was separated from his companions and fell in with a party of eight German Uhlans. Finding escape impossible he stood at bay behind a tree and dropped three of his antagonists with his revolver before finally being captured. Incensed for the heavy price they had to pay for capturing the Frenchman, the Uhlans tied him to the tail of one of their horses and brought him into the German lines. The commanding officer ordered Augier to be shot.

The next morning, with four civilians Augier was brought out to suffer death. They were lined up against a wall, the firing-party took aim and fired. All fell, including Augier, who by a miraculous chance was not killed, though he had five bullets in his body, two in his right leg, two in his right arm and one through his right shoulder. He had presence of mind enough to lie still and feign death. But his torments were not yet over. The officer in command of the firing party, to make sure the victims were dead, fired a shot from his revolver into each of the prostrate forms.

Read Your Policy

—When your agent hands you an insurance policy, look it over carefully to see if you detect any errors, especially in the written or typewritten portions. See if the description is right and if the dates are correct. See that the slips (or riders) which are pasted to the policy bear the same number as the policy itself.

INTERESTING INDUSTRIAL FILM

A most interesting and instructive and educational film will be shown at the Palace Grand November 15 and 29. This picture is one of the industrial series that is to be shown regularly in addition to the regular program and according to those who have had an opportunity to see the film in private showings, it is one of the best things of its kind that has ever been produced.

The picture was taken at the plant of the Savage Tire Company in San Diego, California. It shows in detail the manufacturing processes followed by the Savage Tire Company. How tires and tubes are made is pretty much of a mystery to all who are not directly engaged in this industry and the picture is sure to attract a lot of attention.

HELP TO SUPPRESS ACCIDENTS

Carelessness to the right of them—incompetence to the left of them—evasion in front of them volley and thunder.

Evasion of state laws, county and city ordinances, carelessness on the part of many who know how to drive carefully and through incompetence of those who have not learned how to drive all go to make up a riot of automobile accidents throughout the state of California. Boozing is the and not least equation.

Honest, accident-fearing motorists are surrounded on all sides by the volleying of popping tires, crunching of radiators and buckling fenders in an orgy of sacrificed lives to the God of Accident.

Winter madness cannot be held accountable for the toll of souls claimed in the debauchery of safety. Sane motorists might as well start now to look the matter square between the eyes, if such a figure of speech may be permitted, and take it upon themselves to help stop the business.

There are more than 12,000 responsible, law-abiding automobile owners working together under the banner of the Automobile Club of Southern California to keep the highways thoroughly sign-posted and to supply invaluable service to the motoring public.

This organization, executive represented by the leading business men of Southern California, through its officials and directors to the activities of the Vigilantes operating in San Francisco about 1859 during the reign of lawlessness in that city, those Vigilantes accomplished what could not have been done in any other way. Their method, though haphazard, was straight and to the point.

"Vigilance" is from henceforth to be the watchword of the members of the Automobile Club of Southern California, and with 12,000 of these responsible car owners watching and reporting the evasion of traffic ordinances whether in state, cities or hamlets, there is bound to be something "doing." In other words, every club member is asked by the officials to appoint himself a committee of one to report incompetence, carelessness or evasion, and to make these reports direct to Secretary Mitchell at club headquarters.

In each of the thirteen counties of Southern California the Automobile Club maintains a branch office, and each branch office is supported by various touring bureaus throughout the county. The club representative in each is to be held responsible for curbing, so far as possible, the number of accidents in his territory.

Steps have already been taken along these lines in several of the counties. In Santa Barbara, to quote from a report submitted yesterday to the headquarters, there were 29 recorded accidents on the main streets of the city in one week. These were due to the failure of motorists to observe the new traffic ordinances in effect there. The matter is to be taken up before the city officials by the club.

In Tulare county the Automobile Club is preparing to install 1200 new signs at railroad crossings in an endeavor to cut down the number of accidents. More than 1000 direction signs will also be added to that county's quota. Street intersection signs are also planned. Throughout every county the club has conducted headlight tests to aid motorists in complying with the state law.

Road "hogs" will also come in for their share of attention, as the Automobile club will urge heavier sentences for those "hogs" who cause accidents by their selfish tactics.

In Pasadena the club is working with the city in curbing accidents. More than fifty arrests have been made at the Colorado street bridge for speeding, and this is only the first step in the Pasadena campaign. Motorists who go about annoying people by keeping their mufflers open are also to "get theirs."

Pomona is wakening up to the need of more drastic traffic laws which work toward the safety of the touring public. Co-operating with the Automobile club representatives, the city officials are arranging for sane parking regulations and various steps which will curb the accident toll of that vicinity.

In San Diego city and county the police and Automobile Club are uniting in a big drive on careless automobile drivers. According to reports received from there, San Diego motorists are having trouble in remembering not to cut corners, and the "button" system is liable to be installed at any time.

Secretary Mitchell points out that every club member can aid in suppressing accidents by personally taking extra care in obeying all traffic rules, such as stopping behind street cars in the residence districts, signaling for turns and rounding corners correctly. Further steps to be taken by the club will be outlined in the near future.

ALSACE AND LORRAINE HOME OF WAR GENIUSES

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, October 29. (By Mail.)—Some idea of the blighting effect which German domination has had on the inhabitants of Alsace and Lorraine, is apparent in the fact, that during the past 46 years, that the two provinces have been annexed to Germany, not a single inhabitant has ever attained even a medium high rank in the German army.

Before the German annexation, Alsace and Lorraine produced, in proportion to their territorial size and population, more great generals and military geniuses than any other country in Europe.

During the wars of the French Republic and Empire, when the whole atmosphere of Europe was military, Alsace and Lorraine contributed no less than 62 generals to the French armies. Strassburg alone gave 14. So many of these were veritable military geniuses that the names of 28 of them are carved on the Arch of Triumph at Paris amongst the names of the greatest generals France has produced.

On the Arch are to be found the names of: Scherer, Wehrle, Beurnann, Wolf, Castex, Kellermann, Stolz, Kieher, Schauenbourg, Becker, Stengel.

Amey, Kellermann, Jr., LeFebvre, Hatry, Boyer, Dorsner, Schramm, Schneider, Berckheim, Choudard, Schaal, Bourcier, Rapp, Walther, Schramm, Jr., Coehorn and Dahlmann.

All were natives of Alsace and Lorraine as well as the 34 other generals whose names do not appear on the arch.

They come from every class of people in the two provinces. Generals like Schauenbourg and Berckheim were of the nobility. Kellermann and Kieher came from the bourgeoisie, while many others rose from the soil and the humble ranks of the army.

General Jean-Adam Schramm, who commanded Napoleon's grenadiers at Austerlitz, was once a goose herder on the plains of Beinhelm.

General Jacques-Job Elie, who commanded the armies of the Alps under Kellermann in 1797, began his career as a volunteer soldier in the armies of the kingdom of France.

La Marseillaise, the greatest military hymn ever written, was composed by Rouget de L'Isle, an Alsatian, on the order of the mayor of Strassburg, Baron de Dietrich.

It is to be presumed that all the genius of the national life of Alsace and Lorraine turned to military matters, then, merely because the genius of all Europe was running in military channels. Had it been a period of arts and sciences, it is to be presumed Alsace and Lorraine would have made equal contributions to the world's genius. But the world then demanded military genius.

Yet, when in 1871, Alsace and Lorraine were annexed to the greatest military power the world has ever produced, their military genius died as though stricken in the bud.

ROUMANIA NEEDS HELP

November 13, 1917.

The American Red Cross War Council has appropriated one and a quarter million dollars for emergency relief work in Roumania. W. H. Anderson, chairman of the Red Cross Commission to Roumania, has cabled Henry P. Davison, chairman of the Red Cross War Council of a shortage of food and especially food fats. The military hospitals also are in need of bedding, and surgical and medical supplies in large quantities. No supplies of this kind are available there.

Approximately one million dollars of the appropriation will be used for the purchase of two thousand tons of foodstuffs. Another large item in the appropriation will supply forty thousand pairs of shoes. Medical supplies will be sent in large quantities.

The need of relief in Roumania is particularly pressing because of the over-crowded condition of certain areas, caused by the war operations. In a territory normally occupied by one million persons there is now a population of three million, according to advices cabled by Red Cross workers in the field. Measures to relieve the needs developed by this situation will be put into effect as speedily as possible.

DISAPPROVE OF CHAIN LETTERS

To All Chapters in the Pacific Division:

Last February there was a chain letter started by the French Consul at Seattle appealing to the people for help in building an American hospital in Paris for treating wounds of the face and jaw, and stating that the Red Cross would give $2,000.00 for every $18,000 raised.

The matter never received the sanction of the Red Cross, and the above statements were made without authority.

The Red Cross does not approve of chain letters, and we request all Chapters to give publicity to the fact that we request no one to respond to such letters.

Manager, Pacific Division.

COLOMBIAN PLATINUM IS CONTROLLED BY N. Y. FIRM

An American firm—Adolf Lewisohn and Son, of 61 Broadway, New York, has the valuable concession—(an absolute monopoly)—of mining Colombian platinum.

Platinum—a war metal more costly than gold, is today selling for $110 an ounce, the Council of National Defense states, although the government is filling all its needs at $65 an ounce.

Before the war platinum was worth only $40 an ounce. Stopping the Russian supply to America—before America entered the war, and the urgent demand for platinum for making sparkers in spark plugs, boosted the price.

Today, prospectors are scouring the far corners of the world for platinum deposits. The rich placer platinum deposits in the San Juan and Condote rivers in Colombia are being drawn on heavily to fill the need.

While there is no national shortage in America for war platinum, the Council of National Defense has cautioned against lavish use of the precious metal for making watch or cigarette cases.

Its uses in smaller, and more intricately wrought jewelry is permitted, however.

SISTER SUSIE'S SEWING

Business is good for the seamstress. That the war has not the effect of decreasing, but instead, increasing the business of the seamstress to such a volume that orders are on hand for the next six months was indicated by a local needle and thread artist here today.

"Why business is so good, I cannot promise to take work before next March," said this seamstress. "It is not only a few of us who are busy, but all of us, and business will be good as long as we are engaged in the war."

"The lady of modern means who heretofore has been doing her own sewing, is now knitting for the soldiers abroad, and is turning the needlework she formerly did herself over to the dressmaker, with the result that we are swamped with orders."

Many a last winter's garment has been slightly made over and is being worn this year by the woman who cannot afford to have a new one made, and would rather make the sacrifice so that she may devote her sewing time to help the sons and brothers of so many American women, now serving their flag on the battlefield, than do it herself."

When a man is no longer anxious to do better than well he is done for.—H. R. Haydon.

TUJUNGA

Miss Florence Gilmour has been appointed librarian for our library in place of Miss Brissenden; and Miss Myra Osgood as janitor of Bolton Hall, in Mr. Rocky's stead.

Many of the residents of Tujunga who work in the city are moving there for the winter, while the people from the city are moving here, and one wonders each morning who will be his next door neighbor. We are like a checker board on which the blocks are constantly moving, but there is still the king row that is impregnable.

Mrs. Smith and Miss Pettitt who have occupied the Heald house the past two months left on Thursday for Los Angeles. They have enjoyed their sojourn here, and think of returning when the rains are over.

Mrs. Dunn of San Francisco is occupying her house on Stephens Way for a short time.

Miss Julia Culver of El Centro has gone to the springs for two weeks' rest, but the Red Cross work is for the time under the supervision of Mrs. Fairfield. There is a large amount of work on hand for garments to be sent to France and every woman in Tujunga is asked to bring needle, thread and thimbles and help get the work finished. There is urgent need for the garments, so let each one do their bit even if they can give only an hour's work.

On Wednesday the meetings are held at Mrs. Parcher's and on Monday at Mrs. Ludke's. Plenty of yarn is on hand for scarfs, wristlets and sweaters, which can be had of Mrs. Dean at the store. Get busy. Your country needs the work of your hands as well as those of her soldier boys.

Miss Hanna McKee is again at home fitting her house up for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffith of San Pedro have rented the Hartman house for the winter.

Mr. G. J. Powers has rented the Chase home on Cedar avenue for the winter.

Barney Barclay and family moved to Los Angeles on Saturday. We are sorry to lose them as they were among the pioneers of the valley.

Mr. Mehard is moving his household goods to Los Angeles for the winter.

Miss Emma Kraft who has been quite ill for a few days is reported improving.

Mr. Walter Paul exchanged his beautiful home place on Stephens Way this week for two acres of land near the Selvas de Verduga owned by Wilmot Parcher. The exchange was made through Dean & Co. Mr. Paul is closing up his affairs preparatory to going to the war. He has been with us for nearly four years, and we shall miss him very much.

Miss Grace Beaver, who has been staying with Mrs. Mandray all summer and fall, will return to her home in Los Angeles as soon as Mrs. Mandray closes her house here. Mrs. Mandray will also go to the city and spend the winter with her mother.

Mrs. Morris and Thomson of Sunset boulevard, will winter in Long Beach.

Mrs. Wilmot Parcher has purchased the home of Mr. Walter G. Paul through a trade for Glendale property. We congratulate the Parchers in procuring such a beautiful home.

Mr. Anderson of Hollywood is staying at Mr. Weiman's for a few weeks.

GLOOMY DAY HAS ITS USES

A gloomy day now and then serves a useful purpose. It enables a fellow to sit down and take stock of himself, for there is something about the lowering clouds and dismal weather which causes one to contemplate more seriously the realities of life, the Dayton News observes.

And a gloomy day at this season, of all gloomy days! Sodden, sullen, dreary! The gloom seems to hover over and settle down upon one and sink into his soul. The mind refuses to run in cheerful channels. The very muscles seem to relax and to rebel when asked to do a task. The blood flows slowly through the veins and the nerves grow dull. At least, that is the way it seems upon a gloomy day at this time of the year.

It is pretty hard to think seriously when the sun is shining. Life seems to be a sort of a joke. The world smiles and you smile with it, and all is fickleness. It is no time beneath the smiling skies of a pleasant day to meditate. But a gloomy day—what are we on earth for? From whence did we come? Whither do we go? Is it all worth while. Should be struggle on, with the reward so small or end it all? These are the questions that come to the fellow who sits and gazes out into the sullen air of a gloomy day.

But the beauty of it is, he answers his own questions to his own satisfaction, and arises from his place at the window, renewed in strength and in determination to do the right thing; for he comes to understand the beauty of these gloomy days, to value them at their worth, and to know that he who sits and meditates is profited thereby.

More so, than ever, do you need such help during the sorrows of bereavement. Then, as at no other time, you ask and have a right to expect conscientious service—the kind "you" yourself would give were you able to do so.

You ask and expect an impressive service, free of needless expense, yet fitting the occasion.

In using Scovern-Letton-Frey Co. service either in our mortuary, at the church or in your own home, you will find all these requirements met—quietly, restfully and in good taste.

FEW BIRDS SING IN AUGUST

Once upon a time when we had something to say about August we spoke on it as nature's silent month, remarks the Terre Haute Star. Almost instantly we were reproved by readers who said that in August the locusts and some dozens of their kin made the month noisy, if not musical. Confessedly, when we wrote of August as the silent month, we were thinking of birds, not bugs.

The song sparrow, the red-eyed vireo and sometimes the ovenbird try to take from August its value as a synonym for silence, but of what account is the music of three when their thousand fellows refuse to sing?

August is the molting month and molting is a painful process. The birds do not feel like singing, and, mostly, they do not sing, but it is highly probable that they would not, even if nature were not insisting on a change of feathers. The reason is that the season is late. Housekeeping was pushed forward because roofs were likely to leak.

August, however, for its main part will hold its silent record. It is the midseason and it shows forth together some of the beauties of summer and of fall. The belated rose blossoms with the early aster and the goldenrod stands between. August has neither the full glory of burning July nor of cool September, but it shares in some small part of the glories of each.

HOW COLUMBUS WAS MISLED

Every schoolboy knows that when Columbus discovered the island of Cuba and the rest of the western world that he did not know he had discovered a new world, but thought he had circumnavigated the globe and had found a new way to cross the ocean to Asia. It is a curious fact that the Indians of the island of Cuba unconsciously confirmed this belief. He asked them the name of one of the villages, and they said, "Cubana," and Columbus thought that they were saying, "Kublai Khan," the name of the Tartar village mentioned by Marco Polo, whose record Columbus had read.

MECHANICAL TRAFFIC COP

And now the well known Irish traffic cop is going to be looking for a new job. A Denver inventor has perfected what is said to be the first practical substitute for the son of Erin who works the "Stop-Go" sign at street intersections. The machine, which is being given a thorough try-out by the Denver traffic department, is said to perform all the functions ordinarily left to the cop, with none of his mistakes.

Don't complain about the weather so long as you are not able to change its condition.
